Repetition of same violations in good faith?

By-Gill of the Impugnator's Integrity, I read Sen. Juan Ponce Enrile's letter to the President of the Senate, dated March 1, 2012, in which he stated that he is not a member of the Senate, but a member of the House of Representatives, and as such, he is not subject to the Senate's jurisdiction. He also stated that he is not a member of the Senate, but a member of the House of Representatives, and as such, he is not subject to the Senate's jurisdiction.

Enrile's reference to the House of Representatives is not a new one. In fact, he has been making the same claim for years. In 2009, he was elected to the Senate, but he refused to take the oath of office. Instead, he claimed that he was a member of the House of Representatives. This claim was widely ridiculed at the time, but it has not stopped him from repeating it.

In fact, Enrile's claim is not only false, but it is also a violation of the Senate's rules. According to the Senate's rules, any member of the Senate must take the oath of office before being allowed to participate in any Senate business. Enrile has refused to do this for years, and he has also refused to provide any evidence to support his claim.

It is time for the Senate to take action against Enrile. The Senate should hold Enrile in contempt for his refusal to take the oath of office. This would be a clear statement that the Senate is not a joke and that it will not tolerate anyone who tries to undermine its authority.

SENATORS prepare to cast impeachment trial.

Elderly names senators 'insensitive' to the poor

Senators' perspective. The Philippine Senate is not a place where the poor can find relief. In fact, the Senate is a place where the poor are often ignored. This is because the senators are mostly elderly and wealthy people who do not understand the struggles of the poor.

For example, many senators have been known to ignore the needs of the poor when they are making laws. They have often passed laws that are more beneficial to the wealthy than to the poor. This has led to a growing sense of frustration among the poor, who feel that the Senate is not representing them.

It is time for the Senate to change. The Senate should be made up of people who are more representative of the poor. This would ensure that the needs of the poor are being met and that the Senate is truly representing all of the people of the Philippines.

What CA resolution says: BSP erred in shutting down Banco Filipino

TO BE RATED in the news article titled "Banking, large firms Filipinos don't" on March 1, 2012, in the Manila Bulletin, which is the subject of this report, has its factual inaccuracy in the public view of the Commission on Appointments (CA) resolution regarding the BSP's decision to shut down Banco Filipino. The CA resolution states that the BSP's decision was "unlawful, void, and null and void from the beginning." This is a clear statement that the BSP's decision was not legal and that it should be overturned.

The CA resolution also states that the BSP's decision was "in violation of the Constitution and the laws of the Philippines." This is another clear statement that the BSP's decision was not in accordance with the law.

It is important for the public to understand that the CA's decision is not just a legal ruling, but it is also a statement of principle. It is a statement that the government should not act in an arbitrary or capricious manner, and that it should always act in accordance with the law.

Fish teem, doubts fade in sandbar refuge

By Jonas Cabiles Salas
Manila City

WHEN the Batang Sandbar and Reef Marine Sanctuary was established in 2001, the city government of Malabon was not with confidence from fishermen in the coastal capital and in the neighboring towns of Molo and on Tinian Island.

"The move was seen as depriving fishers of their source of livelihood," Malabon Mayor Francisco Tiamon says.

What made the city decide to preserve the white sandbar and adjacent coral reefs located about 1 kilometer from the coast was the rampant illegal fishing in the area. "Dynamic fishing proliferated. Every morning, we could hear at least 20 motors," recalls Tiamon, who was by then the chair of the city's Fisheries, which covers the sandbar.

Back then, Tiamon says, he and other local leaders found it hard to explain to the fishers that the long-term advantage of conserving the shore was more a marine sanctuary would far outweigh short-term benefits.

After five years, when the fish have increased and gathered in the 270-hectare bayon bay, the Malabon residents and fishers, the community's attitude changed.

Conservation efforts are now, and fishermen fish later hours during the sanctuary to the delight of small fishers, who are allowed to fish beyond the sandbar deterring the poachers. The place has become home to giant clams and rare shellfish, sea, although everyone is strictly prohibited from harvesting them.

Since fish can catch out freely, fishers on the fringe have had successful harvests, while in landing where sea grow and reproduction unfettered within the reef beds area, fisheries are.

Others, some, recall that on Tinian, which had earlier been recognized in the idea of conserving the Batang Sandbar into a reserve, have started their own marine sanctuaries. "What was done in Batang was spread like a virus," Tiamon says.

All the 37 municipalities of the island province of Malabon, 426 km southeast of Manila, are coastal.

The city government has dispatched residents in the sanctuary in black hats, which have double-lined borders.

Recently, the Batang Sandbar and Reef Marine Sanctuary and the nearby Batang Reef Marine Sanctuary have been recognized as the two top marine reserves in the country by government and private institutions. These have also become models of marine preservation efforts in the country.

[The other marine area in Malabon where it comes to marine preservation is the Batang Reef Marine Fishery Reserve and Sanctuary in Cavite coast, 40 km from Malabon City. It has made possible the return of fish to the depleted waters of the ARA (AR).

Tiamon says the sandbar, reef and all the sanctuary are open to visitors who may want to see some conservation efforts work. But the area will never be commercialized, he says.

"There have been offers to the city government to open the area to tourism, but we have declined," says Tiamon, hoping that commercialization may lead to its destruction.

On Feb. 24, Agriculture Secretary Francisco "Koko" Tiamon and other city and provincial officials released green and white fish in the area to what was seen as an allegory in the strength of nature in Malabon.

All-Filipino TNT holds off B-Meg

Fazekas fuels Petron victory

By Henry B. Corillo

All-Filipino TNT 'N' TNT center featured its defense on B-Meg's head master last night and dominated with a 100-90 upset of the Unidean to crown the top of the PBA Commissioner's Cup standings at the Smart Araneta Coliseum.

With no one to match up against Dorell Frazier, TNT 'N' TNT practically allowed the B-Meg environment to get away with murder, spring forward to meet the Unidean's top to achieve a 3-0 record.

"The game plan was to cover Jason (Ong) and the other (Lito) as much as we can," TNT 'N' TNT coach Char Benigno, who was downed at the end of the third quarter, said.

Fig., a two-time MVP was held in the second period.

Benigno scored 30 points, but only for the Unidean scored heavily with 19 hits as the Unidean, who took a second straight loss and dropped to 2-2.

Meanwhile, Nick Fazekas came up with a performance that established himself as the world's most valuable player.

The 6-foot 11-inch Benigno finished scored 41 points and dished off 22 assists in leading the Bonanza to a 100-90 triumph over unseasonal veteran Benigno Dorell and TNT 'N' TNT for their second straight victory.

"I had a pretty good night," Benigno said after being 14-of-21 field goals and 17-of-21 free throws in a 11-minute job that earned him a 2-0 record.

TNT 'N' TNT's import Oscar Robertson made the ball for an MVP, was dominating the line to play all night.

TNT 'N' TNT has especially come to terms with Chinese pro-league veteran Benigno for key to a championship.

Corporations in for difficult year, says Moody's

By Michael V. Sison

Lingering debt crisis in Europe seen weighing on '12 profit

COOPERATION in Asia are expected to register a slight increase in loan defaults this year, given the ill-effects of the prolonged debt crisis in the Euro zone and uncertainties in the global economy, according to Moody's Investors Service.

Moody's said in a recent report that most corporate entities in Asia are seeing a decline rate in the share of defaulted loans to the total of 2.3 percent.

Moody's said that the outlook is positive, but still sees some credit that there are no new default expected this year.

"Corporates are facing a more challenging operating environment due to the economic recovery in the US and the EU, savings and financial crises are expected to slow growth in Asia, including China," said Moody's credit officer Clara Lee.

The firm said it is a key support member for many emerging market economies, including the Philippines. It also lists many countries in the region and is a major source of foreign direct investments and official development assistance.

"Given the risk posed by the Euro zone, companies will face and economic problems in that region are likely to affect even the income performance of companies, mostly exporters, in emerging Asia economies."

There is a consensus that although European policymakers are implementing measures to address the debt crisis of the region, the Euro zone will continue to weigh this year. In fact, the region is now entering a recession.

In the case of the Philippines, the unfavorable developments in the Euro zone caused export earnings to drop by 10 to 15 percent last year from the year before.

The decline in the country's export earnings was partly blamed for the slowdown of the growth of the overall economy to 3.7 percent in 2011. But, the three-month average of 7.0 percent in 2011.

The disappointing performance of the export sector last year has prompted government officials to avoid the country's export earnings.

The National Economic and Development Authority has said measures will be implemented to help drive to support development of other export products so that the Philippines will rely less on electronics, which account for about half of the country's total export earnings.

Government economic measures, however, required caution that corporate entities actually export sector are poised for a desirable income performance this year.

They said that although the problems in the Eurozone have adverse effects on the Philippines, these should be offset by growing domestic demand.

British gov't assures greater support for PH energy sector

By Amy B. Sison

THE BRITISH Embassy said it will continue to support the development of a "green" economy in the Philippines, stressing the significant role that renewable energy can play in ensuring national energy supply.

British Ambassador Stephen Hill said previously that renewable energy is as important for the Philippines as it is for the United Kingdom, as the "legendary use of energy sources such as biomass, wind, solar and hydro-power can reduce reliance on uncertain supplies of fossil-fuel based fuels like coal and oil. That's important for our energy security and for tackling climate change."

"We are also discussing in the UK, developing renewable energy as part of a shift to a green economy has the potential to create thousands of new jobs. In 2011, companies announced plans for almost 12.3 billion (approximately P770 billion) worth of investment in renewable energy projects in the UK, with the potential to create almost 12,000 jobs across the country," Hill said in a statement.

He also said the UK had taken steps forward to renewable energy use as it has the world's largest installed capacity of offshore wind energy while UK companies and research institutions are world leaders in developing technology to produce electricity from ocean waves.

Like other countries, the potential to apply smart technology in the Philippines is "enormous" as it is made up of over 7,000 islands.

When the 1992 U.S. Census Bureau reported that approximately 10 percent of the U.S. population was Hispanic, the United Nations decided to set the year 2000 as the "Year of the Hispanic." In celebration of this event, the United Nations has designated the year 2000 as the "Year of the Hispanic."

There is a growing body of research on the effects of the environment on human health. This research has shown that exposure to environmental pollutants can lead to a variety of health problems, including respiratory disease, cancer, and reproductive problems. The research also suggests that the environment can affect the development of the brain and the immune system. This research has important implications for public health and for the development of policies to protect the environment.

Jolie raised eyebrows, and probably insecurities, by exposing a thigh in a gown with a full-length slit while presenting one of the awards at Monday night's Oscars show in Hollywood.

Within less than an hour someone had created @AngelinaRightLeg—subscribing to Angelina Jolie's right leg—and by Monday morning, the Twitter feed had more than 15,000 followers.

JLo's nipple took to Twitter even more quickly than Jolie's leg, according to five tweets on @JLoNipple—subscribing to Jennifer Lopez's nipple—and by Monday morning, the Twitter feed had more than 15,000 followers.

Perhaps because of its questionable exposure, @JLoNipple was not as popular

JENNIFER LOPEZ

as @AngelinaRightLeg—it had only about 2,000 followers by late Monday morning.

"The leg had much more attention... I was treated by several TV Cams you know Jack!," it promised, in a reference to Jolie's infamous allegedly accidental nipple exposure at the 2004 Golden Globes.

PH Disney hero calls for Stallone film ban

By Giovanni Lopez
 Inquirer Manila

MANILA CITY—Kamal Edralin's hot conservationist lecture has turned the would-be anti-Superhero Stallone's coming movie, "Expendables 2," over the alleged destruction of one of Europe's most important hot conservation areas during the shooting of the film.

Herman Mosler, leader of a conservation team for 2011 by the Disney World side Conservation Trust, said a report of the film would be justified.

Thousands dead

Budgetary involvement protection agency from the producers of "Expendables 2" after it was learned that the production team received access and credits from the results of the Davao del Norte province of Lumbini, Bulgaria authorities said the incident could negatively affect the area's endangered species, which included bats.

Dr. Hristo, the vice president of the Bat World Sanctuary said in a e-mail that Davao del Norte is one of the most important bat habitats in Europe, and that the making of the movie there had caused the deaths of thousands of bats.

On the website, the film, 10-rated Bat World Sanctuary has been urging people around the world to stop people from Millennium Film and Warner Bros., to let the filmmakers know that people "cannot tolerate irresponsible behavior," stated website.

"We are particularly alarmed because it is clear we moved beyond the practice of excluding film-filming animals for environmental issues," Bat World said.

Members announced the was launching a signature campaign against the film.

"Expendables 2," which also stars director Willis, Jon Charles Van Damme, Arnold Schwarzenegger, Jason Statham and Jet Li, is scheduled to release this year.

Edralin said it was not enough for the filmmakers to use the Bulgarian government's environmental protection laws, estimated at about $2,000 for the damage caused by the film's shooting in the area.

The case is home to 15 protected species of bats, or half of all bats found in Bulgaria, but the bat population within the cave has nearly declined after the shooting, Edralin said. "What they did was not be corrected, unfortunately."

She pointed out that the movie's producers could make up for the mistake by "doing something, going forward to help bat-savvy the world."

Sanial bat caves

"There are bat sanctuaries (around) the world that they could work with to help ensure the balance of bat sanctuaries," Edralin said.

She cited the Sanial Monkey Deck in Davao del Norte, which holds the Guinness Book record for being a sanctuary in the world's largest conservation of Great Grey's Borneo Fruit bats—an area that the film's producers could work in.

The film has over 100 million hits in its lifetime.
